TRUMAN PLEDGES PEACE DRIVE

Million Throng Capital for Inauguration

Nobody's Talking, But Water Rate Boost Bubbles Up

By SHELDON BINN

No matter which way they sluice it, the city's water costs problem is going to create a flood of headaches this year.

Although no city official will go so far as to predict an increase in rates, or suggest such a move, the figures seem to indicate that some sort of an adjustment is in the offing, if adequate service is to be rendered.

City council has appropriated $408,786 for the water department in 1949, of which $280,600 goes for servicing the debt and for power, expenses which cannot be avoided, or reduced.

Therefore, $128,000 is left to maintain and repair the existing system, both on the production and distribution ends.

Last year, subtracting the power and debt service bill which only totaled $159,993 and non-recurring capital expenses, $163,000 was left for maintenance.

In other words, the water department has approximately $35,000 less with which to run the department this year. If everything else remained constant, the department might have been able to pare down costs and keep going without too much difficulty.

But before the end of the year, the water department will have to contend with additional power bills when the new high lift pumping station of the Clear Fork project is finished and more personnel is needed to maintain the Clear Fork dam project.

Faced squarely, it all adds up to this: More money is needed.

A considerable increase of income could be expected if a meter survey could be made to determine which meters are "slow" (do not register all the water used) and replace them with new meters.

And additional income could be earned if some of the "lost" water were found. B. V. BeVier, city sanitary engineer, estimates that 36.6 per cent of all water pumped into the city is lost, and therefore unpaid for.

But it takes money to make those surveys, to repair meters and to buy new ones. That money is not available and council had to cut the water department's new meter fund from $9,000 in 1948 to $3,000 this year.

Other cuts had to be made, including decreases in the payroll funds (cutting the number of employes), in pump station maintenance and in the new water main fund.

So even if a survey is ordered, money must be spent to make the long-run saving possible.

All this seems to mean higher rates. Whether there will be a boost this year (an election year) is not known.

How high can the rates go if a hike is ordered is another problem.

Mansfields' industries, led by the Manufacturer's club and the Chamber of Commerce is known not to be particularly pleased with the rate hike that went into effect last year, the first in 39 years.

A further rate hike would mean opposition. Industrial rates can be raised to a given point. After that, it would become cheaper for the big plants to build recirculating systems and reuse the water several times.

This, of course, would cut the gross income of the water department. So if a rate increase is ordered, it must be carefully worked out so that it will not pass the point of diminishing returns.

DOUBLE NEED SEEN

City council's water committee has a survey of the situation, on file. It was prepared by Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier, after seven months work.

He wrote that an annual income of about $700,000 is needed, as compared with the present $350,000 a year. This is needed not only to meet normal operating costs and keep maintenance at a high level, but to allow for depreciation.

Depreciation means that money must be laid aside to buy new equipment as the present equipment wears out. This has not been done for many years, necessary as it is.

It becomes obvious, in terms of the available figures, that a source of additional income is needed. Whether the decision is to keep things running at the minimum level of efficiency or to make expenditures to bring things up to "normal", more money must be found.

Jailing of Girl, 17, Rapped

Judge Protests Lack of Home

Imprisonment of a 17-year-old girl in the county jail because the county has no detention home was described today by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer as "a shame on Richland county."

Judge Cramer said the girl would have been held in a juvenile detention home — if the county had one.

Richland county has been without a home for juveniles since Jan. 1 when the Salvation Army board closed down the detention home at the post after giving the county commissioners more than six months notice.

Held in the same women's quarters of the county jail is a 56-year-old woman serving a 30-day municipal court sentence for petty larceny. There is no segregation. The women's quarters are small and cramped in the 80-year-old jail.

The girl is charged as a delinquent in that she has refused to carry out the terms set up by juvenile court in a previous hearing. She had been cited previously for truancy.

FAILED TO APPEAR

Her hearing was set for Tuesday afternoon, but she did not appear in court. An arrest order was issued and the girl was arrested by sheriff's deputies yesterday and a hearing set.

At the hearing, however, the girl would not cooperate with the court, by providing information, Judge Cramer said. He said, however, he would try to have her released from jail as soon as possible.

Neither the old board of county commissioners nor the present one has made any progress in obtaining a juvenile home although the Salvation Army served notice early last summer.

Judge Cramer has asked for rooms in private homes to house the children for a few days at a time, but has had no response.

INAUGURAL BIBLES—President Truman places his hand on the two Bibles used at his inauguration in Washington. The large one is a reproduction of the original Gutenberg Bible, recently purchased by his home town chamber of commerce. The other is the White House Bible on which he took the presidential oath on April 12, 1945, when he succeeded President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The larger Bible will be opened at the Ten Commandments and the smaller one at the Beatitudes—"Blessed are the peacemakers."

'Stay Sober Until One O'clock'

Big Day For Truman Off to Rousing Start

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman began his inauguration day with a 7 a. m. breakfast frolic with old buddies of World War I.

They gave him a gold-headed walking stick, sang a song to him and kept him busy autographing menus, dollar bills and programs.

And they grinned at his admonition to "stay sober" until after the inaugural parade in which they had a place of honor.

The President was visibly pleased with his new walking stick. He said he planned to use it on his regular morning walks, and added:

"I will pass it on to my daughter and perhaps some day she can give it to my grandson."

Eugene P. Donnelly of Kansas City got up and sang an inaugural song composed in collaboration with Morris G. Riley, also of K. C. It started off, "It's a Long Time Since 1918," and went on in the tune of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary": "So it's hello Captain Truman with the boys you led so well; you're a great guy, Harry Truman, for you — we'd march through hell."

The President called the early breakfast turnout "the greatest compliment that could be paid a man."

"After one o'clock or 25 minutes thereafter, I don't give a damn what you do, but I want you to stay sober up until then," he said."

President Truman stayed up far past his usual bedtime this morning to hear to the last note an inaugural "gala" that ran three and a half hours.

It was about 12:40 a. m. when he, Mrs. Truman and Margaret left the National Guard armory—and he had the 7 a. m. breakfast date with his World War I buddies of Battery D.

But then one doesn't get inaugurated every day. Maybe that is why he laughed so heartily at Lum and Abner's definition of an inauguration:

"An inauguration," Lum told Abner, "is that every four years a Democrat is sworn in in Washington."

STARS APPEAR

Topflight theatrical, movie and radio performers teamed up to put on a show in honor of Mr. Truman and Vice President-elect Barkley.

The result was a variety program varying from dances by Tony and Sally De Marco, patter by Abbot and Costello to operatic selections sung by Ferruccio Tagliavani, of the Metropolitan and music by the National Symphony orchestra.

It was a sold-out performance days ago when the 5,300 capacity allowed by police and fire regulations in the armory was reached.

Mr. Truman laughed and applauded the comedy acts and that of Lum and Abner in particular.

George Jessel, Phil Harris, Gene Kelly and Phil Regan took turns as masters of ceremonies. Other performens contributing to the show included Gene Archer, Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra, Joan Davis, Lena Horne, Alice Faye, Jane Powell, Dorothy Maynor, Kaye Starr, Margaret O'Brien, Dick Haymes, Jane Froman and Lucy Monroe.

Youth Freed From OSR

Court Grants Habeas Corpus Writ

A writ of habeas corpus was granted today by the Fifth district court of appeals for the release of war veteran Bobbie Dale Reynolds, 25, of Canton, from the Mansfield reformatory.

The court heard evidence in the case Tuesday in Mansfield. The three-judge court's opinion, in allowing the writ said: "It is our conclusion that he was deprived of his liberty without due process of law."

The petition asking the writ was filed by the youth's mother, Mrs. Ruth F. Reynolds, Canton. She was represented by Atty. Adolph Unger, of Canton.

Mrs. Reynolds alleged that her son, serving a one-to-15-year term for assault with intent to rob, was declared to have 100 per cent mental disability by the Veterans' administration.

The court found Reynolds had been in several governmental hospitals as a mental case and that on Feb. 4, 1947, he was adjudged an incompetent person in Stark county probate court and his mother appointed his guardian.

Giant Air Armada In Salute

(Compiled From Wire Services)

WASHINGTON—An air of excitement pervaded the nation's capital today as a million well-wishers jammed the streets, each striving to see every bit of the gala inauguration.

Overhead an air armada of 650 planes joined in the roaring salute to President Harry S. Truman.

By 9 a. m. the Capitol grounds were black with humanity and every inch of seating space in the vast concourse outside the Capitol was occupied. Most onlookers carried with them blankets, sandwiches and hot coffee, not wanting to miss a single second of a day bursting at the seams with activity.

Police estimated that more than a million persons view the colorful inaugural parade as it swung into Pennsylvania avenue for its mile-and-a-quarter journey past the White House.

Even as the parade passed the presidential party, feverish planning was continuing for the reception to be held at the National Art gallery at 5 p. m.

Climaxing the three-day whirl of social festivities will be the traditional inaugural ball at the National Guard armory. The affair will get underway at 10 a. m.

Close by President Truman's side all day were his wife and his daughter, Margaret. Also with the presidential party were Vice-President Alben Barkley and his daughter, Mrs. Max O'Rell Truitt.

All watched excitedly as the Army, Navy, Air Force, and gaily-bedecked floats paid tribute to "Captain Harry."

AERIAL BLANKET

The largest concentration of combat aircraft ever seen over Washington provided an aerial blanket for the carnival-like parade. Nineteen different types of planes roared overhead, 650 strong, saluting the nation's chief.

Contrasting with the cold but clear day were the floats bedecked with simulated waterfalls and palm-shaded seashores.

Drawing the biggest hand from onlookers was the Missouri float drawn by a span of eight matched horses. A six-foot model of the White House and a giant sized picture of the President dominated the display.

Oh, yes, sometime after 1 o'clock in the afternoon President Truman managed to squeeze in time for the brief but impressive swearing-in ceremonies.

Loan Israeli $100,000,000

WASHINGTON— (UP)— Government quarters said today the United States will grant full diplomatic recognition to Israel immediately following next week's Israeli elections.

These sources cited the export-import bank's authorization yesterday of a $100,000,000 loan to the new state as evidence that the last barriers to full "De Jure" recognition are down.

The United States gave interim recognition to Israel last May 14, the day the state was created.

Youth Sentenced

AKRON—(AP)—Fred Braun, 19, of Cleveland today was under a three-to-20-year sentence in Mansfield reformatory on a criminal assault charge. He was found guilty of enticing a 17-year-old Cleveland girl into an automobile so that his two companions could attack her.

Blasts False Philosophy of Communists

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Harry S. Truman, inaugurated today as the 33rd President of the United States, condemned communism as a "false philosophy" and pledged America's might to a relentless struggle for a "just and lasting" peace on earth.

The chief executive, after taking his oath of office, eloquently asserted his determination to lead in a fight against the "deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny" of communist regimes.

The President solemnly promised that the United States will support free democracies not only against their "human oppressors" but also against "hunger, misery and despair."

Mr. Truman, speaking to the greatest throng ever assembled in the nation's capital, delivered the most smashing denunciation of communism he has ever voiced and in the name of the United States accepted leadership of the "free world."

In his inaugural address, broadcast to the world, Mr. Truman pledged the vast resources of the United States to a four-point "program for peace and freedom."

He said calmly: "We need not have war."

His plan is:

1. Unfaltering support of the United Nations.

2. To "keep our full weight behind the European recovery program" while reducing trade barriers everywhere.

3. To "strengthen freedom-loving nations against the dangers of aggression" with U. S. participation in the north Atlantic security pact and U. S. "military advice and equipment to free nations" cooperating for peace.

4. A "bold new program" to make U. S. scientific and industrial progress available to underdeveloped areas.

Mr. Truman bluntly denounced communism as the roadblock to peace. He said in blistering words:

"That regime adheres to a false philosophy which purports to offer freedom, security and greater opportunity to mankind. Misled by this philosophy, many peoples have sacrificed their liberties only to learn to their sorrow that deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny, are their reward."

But the president held the door to peace wide open to Russia and its satellites. He said:

"In due time, as our stability becomes manifest, as more and more nations come to know the benefits of democracy and to participate in growing abundance, I believe that those countries which now oppose us will abandon their delusions and join with the free nations of the world in a just settlement of international differences."

Mr. Truman declared the United States would be aided in its peace program "by all who desire freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom to live their own lives for useful ends."

NAMES ALLIES

The chief executive asserted:

"Our allies are the millions who thirst and hunger after righteousness.

"Democracy alone can supply the vitalizing force to stir the peoples of the world into triumphant action.

A huge crowd saw Mr. Truman sworn into his new four-year term by chief justice of the United States Fred M. Vinson at the capitol.

Before he motored to the capitol, the president attended private church services with his family at nearby St. John's Episcopal church. There, he sought divine guidance for the task that lies ahead.

At the capitol, the president wore a formal Prince Albert and top hat, which he doffed to the cheering multitude.

The supreme court, cabinet, members of the senate and house, high government officials, foreign envoys and party leaders shared the inaugural platform with the president and vice president.

Prayers opened the solemn ceremony at noon.

Vice President Barkley was sworn first by Associate Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed.

TAKES OATH

The President then took the oath. He re-assumed the presidency with this solemn pledge:

"I accept it with a deep resolve to do all that I can for the welfare of this nation and for the peace of the world.

"Today marks the beginning not only of a new administration but of a period that will be eventful, perhaps dicisive, for us and the world.

"The supreme need of our time is for men to learn to live together in peace and harmony."

Mr. Truman gave as his four-year goal: "peace, plenty and freedom."

Barkley Moves Into Nation's No. 2 Spot

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Alben W Barkley, a man of good will and good humor, moved into the vice-presidency today after 36 years of service in Congress.

As much as anyone in American politics, he symbolizes the term "party wheelhorse." His new job is a reward for years of service and unswerving loyalty to the Democratic party.

Officially, the 71-year-old Barkley will preside over the Senate and vote only in case of ties Unofficially, he will serve as an administration peacemaker and troubleshooter in the Senate, dedicated to building harmony between the White House and Democrats in the Senate.

He has had long training for his unofficial assignment. For more than 11 years he has served as Democratic leeader in the Senate, a job to which he was elected by one vote in 1937 with the blessing of President Roosevelt.

Barkley's new job climaxes an Horatio Alger career that began in a Kentucky log cabin where he was born Nov. 24, 1877. He worked in the fields of his father's small tobacco farm while attending country schools, then worked his way through college and law school.

He was admitted to the bar at Paducah, Ky., in 1901 and was married two years later to Dorothy Bowers of that city. She died two years ago.

After working as clerk of the county court, Barkley started his career—still unbroken—in elective office. He became prosecuting attorney of McCracken county in 1905 and county judge four years later He was elected to the national House of Representatives in 1912 and to the Senate in 1926.

His patience, good humor and peacemaking ability eventually made him the leader of his party in the Senate. He was respected by conservative Democrats and New Dealers alike.

While Barkley was cleaning out his desk in the front row of the Senate Tuesday, he heard a round of tributes. Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry had this to say:

"He has watched the Senate explode, as it does at times, and then stepped in, in masterly fashion, to sort of quiet us. And we got down to business and performed the work the Senate was supposed to do."

Dies Saving Infant Son

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Dasey Groves, 21, was burned fatally but saved her 11-month-old son, Harold, as flames swept the kitchen of their farm home three miles west of here late yesterday. She died of second-degree burns in City hospital here at 1:45 a. m. today.

An explosion resulted when she threw kerosene on a fire in the kitchen, and her clothing became ignited. Mrs. Groves ran outside to a pump and secured water to extinguish her flaming clothing.

Smoke and flames barred her return to the house so she broke a window to get inside to rescue the child She then donned a coat and carried him three quarters of a mile to the nearest neighbor where an ambulance was summoned.

Mrs. Groves' husband, Claude, was at work at the Swan Rubber company plant, Bucyrus, at the time of the tragedy.

The body was taken to the Wise funeral home here pending arrangements.

Charge Nine Youths

City Stores Offer Winter Bargains

Mansfield merchants are preparing for a big influx of out-of-town customers for their mid-winter sale tomorrow and Saturday. Special sales prices will reduce original prices as much as 50 per cent on some items.

Today's advertising in the News-Journal features hundreds of marked-down prices for the special sale days. The 32-page edition carries advertisements of all kinds of winter goods which will be offered at the reduced prices.

The sales represent a concerted effort by the city's retailers to clear their stocks of surplus winter goods. Instead of holding sales at scattered times throughout the month many merchants decided it would be more effective to stage a combined clearance drive.

Some of the major categories of the merchandise are clothing, home furnishings, appliances, hardware, dry goods, furniture, and shoes.

Some of the merchants expect to carry their special sales over into next week.

Spokesmen for the sale said time payment plans would be promoted in the stores which have such plans. A law which went into effect in September requires a minimum down payment of 20 per cent on some home appliances.

Hitler Technique Seen In FCC Action

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A special congressional investigating committee has just handed down a 10,000 word report that finds the Federal Communications commission has usurped judicial and legislative powers, seeks to control radio programs and "browbeats" radio applicants—charges which go even beyond those set forth by The News-Journal last year. This is the fourth of a series of articles in the report.)

Authorization by the U.S. Federal Communications commission of a government-owned commercial radio station on the island of Puerto Rico was a target for sharp criticism of the FCC by the Congressional select committee which investigated the FCC last year.

"The authorizing of the government station to operate commercially (in Puerto Rico) is the basis of the present controversy among broadcasters on the island," the congressional committee report states.

"The entry of the government station into the competitive field does pose a serious question in relation to private interests. One of the claims made by those supporting the government station is that it will become a standard of merit to be followed by others. This claim the committee does not consider well founded," the investigating board's report states

In addition to taking sharp issue with the FCC's operations in licensing a government-operated station to compete with regular private enterprises in Puerto Rico the investigators also found in the Puerto Rico probe that the FCC was leaving the way open "to establish a vast network of subversive communications stations.'

In one section of its report on Puerto Rico investigations, the committee stated:

"Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are of strategic importance in the defense of the Panama Canal and the continental United States. Grants are being made for licenses of short-wave amateurs merely by passing speed tests in sending and receiving messages; no screening of applicants is conducted; no effort is made to trace the background or affiliations of the individuals. This practice provides the opportunity to establist a vast network of subversive communications stations."

Emphasizing the importance with which the committee regards the facts uncovered in Puerto Rico, and the dangers to American security and to the accepted American way of life, the committee

For Friday, January 21
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ALTHOUGH there is an abrupt turn toward constructive and unexpected good fortune, encouraging to determined and consolidated attack on uncertain situations, yet strange developments and lack of cooperation from influential places are likely to upset well-aimed plans and tactics. An error or some curious twist may prove an uprooting or complicated condition A vague or intangible incident may be at the root of withdrawal of promised support

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a complicated or tricky situation in which funds, energies and the good will of those in high places may be subject to strange, inexplicable and precarious predicaments Promised cooperation may be forfeited by treacherous undercurrents or false presentation of facts Concentrated efforts, determination, with ingenuity, exceptional skill and insight may not have power to overcome frustrations until there is a turn of the tide into more reasonable and safe channels Sound tactics and serious application may bring future returns

A child born on this day, while possessing sturdy and dependable qualities, may encounter strange or erratic situations, making it difficult to "cash in" on its best endeavors.

Sandwich Fillings For Light Meals

By ALICE DENHOFF

IT'S a good idea, at this time of year, to have on hand prepared fillings for hearty sandwiches, when something hearty but not too substantial is in order. Sandwiches, plus a salad, a cup of hot consomme, coffee and cake adds up to a nice meal.

For a healthful spread, place 3 strips of bacon in a cold skillet, and grill slowly over low heat until crisp. Pour off all fat except one or 2 tbsp. Add one c. chopped cooked beef liver, then crumple the bacon.

Let the mixture cook for a few minutes. Cool; add one c. finely grated raw carrot, ½ c. boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste. Makes about 2 c. of dressing—enough for 8 good sandwiches

Good American Dish

Ever hear of Rum Tum Tiddy? Or, maybe you know it as Rinkum-tiddy? Anyway, it's as American as a cowboy and just as frisky. Melt 2 tbsp. butter or margarine in double boiler. Add 2 tsp. flour; stir to smooth paste. Add ½ c. thin cream or undiluted evaporated milk gradually, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add ½ c. tomato catsup, 2 tbsp. finely grated onion, dash of salt and pepper. Combine well. Cut ½ lb. yellow cheese into small pieces; add to mixture with ½ c. minced pimiento. Stir until cheese is melted. Blend a little of the cheese mixture with tsp. prepared mustard before combining with rest of spread. Remove from fire and store in covered jar in refrigerator to use as a sandwich spread. Makes 2 c. spread.

For something fancier than just a sandwich spread, however good, spread the cheese mixture on white bread, then French-toast by dipping in beaten egg and milk with a dash of salt and pepper. Saute in butter in skillet. They'll emerge light and delicate as a souffle, with crisp little edges.

For a filling with flair, wash ½ lb. mushrooms and put through food chopper with coarse blade or fine chop with a knife. Saute in ¼ lb. table spread for 5 min. Sprinkle with tbs. flour; add ¼ c. cream or evaporated milk, ¼ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. blended herbs. Stir until thick, then cook. Store in a covered jar in refrigerator until needed.

For something special, spread this mushroom mixture on buttered slices of white bread from which crusts have been removed. Roll up each slice very carefully; place side by side in shallow baking pan. Toast in oven or under broiler.

Farm Agent Offers Aid

Farmers who would like to have assistance in selecting lambs for the Greenwich lamb pool may call the county agricultural extension office, County Agent C. N. McGrew said today.

Such assistance is optional, McGrew said. If farmers wish, they may arrange to have a producers field man help them in the selection. The next lamb pool will be held Jan. 27.

At the lamb pool Thursday, 592 lambs were graded and sold, including 60 feeders. Prices ranged from 27 cents a pound for top grade lambs to 22 cents a pound for the lowest grades.

Chairman Cites GOP Policies

'Middle-of-Road,' Declares Scott

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — It'll be a middle-of-the-road Republican party if national chairman Hugh D. Scott has anything to say about it.

And if any Republican thinks Scott is going to roll over, play dead and take his orders from any of the big bank roll boys or possible presidential candidates, Scott says he has another think coming.

The 48-year-old chairman made it plain to me he looks upon himself as a four-year man, intends to have a voice in forming Republican policy and is ready for any kind of scrap that comes his way

Some members of the Republican national committee have been taking pot shots at Scott. Installed hurriedly at the GOP national convention in June, he will go into a session of the committee in Omaha Jan. 25 and 26 still a stranger to about half of its members.

But he isn't worried about the ouster efforts by some of those who are disgusted with the way the election turned out.

"Everybody knows," he said, "that I didn't have anything to do with running the campaign, although I made 80 speeches for the candidates"

Scott played a third or fourth fiddle in the campaign band, which was directed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's personal friend, Herbert Brownell jr.

Now Scott is determined to take over the baton and — with some conessions to congressional leaders — he seems in a fair way to get the nod.

What he has in mind, Scott said, is to weld together a party that has its conservatives and its liberals but is made up mostly of the middle-of-the-road folk he thinks can cast a lot of votes if they are stirred up.

"I'm a middle of the roader, myself," he said. "I think my record is good in Congress, and I'm willing to stand on it."

Like a lot of his Republican colleagues in the house, Scott voted for the Taft-Hartley act, which was assailed so bitterly by President Truman during the campaign

Mrs. Truman's friends class most Taft-Hartley supporters as "reactionary." On the other hand, they are likely to regard those who support the administration's reciprocal trade agreement program as "liberal."

Scott reminded that he had voted for that program three times as a member from the Sixth Pennsylvania district.

"I even tried to keep the New Deal's National Youth Administration alive in the period before the war," he said. "I did it because I thought that was one way to get war workers trained."

Scott picked up some ideas about scrapping during the war. He went into Japan on the first day of occupation as a lieutenant commander, serving for a short time under Harold E. Stassen, then a commander.

Stassen is one of Scott's constituents, and they see each other frequently. But that doesn't mean, the chairman said, that he's a supporter of Stassen, who is looked upon as a likely candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952

"I know all the other potential candidates, and I'm friendly with them, too," he said.

Although he owes his job to Dewey, Scott said he is accepting at face value the New York governor's statement that he will never be a presidential candidate again

Scott greets with a snort Democratic charges that he was "hand picked" as chairman by state Senator Joseph Grundy, a Pennsylvania Republican power.

"I admire and respect Senator Grundy," Scott said. "I think he's a fine man. But I don't take orders from him or anybody else I voted for the reciprocal trade program and Senator Grundy's a high tariff man That doesn't look like I was taking any orders, does it?"

Jury Ordered To Fix Price

Common Pleas Judge G E Kalbfleisch has ordered that a jury be impaneled Feb. 7 at 9 a m for assessing compensation for easement on property at the rear of 302 Orange street to lay a storm sewer.

Named defendants are the Jacob Wolf company, owner of the land, and Builder's Supply company, tenant The petition said a nine-foot strip of land is sought to complete the right-of-way.

The city of Mansfield seeks the easement.

Conviction Upheld

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio supreme court for a second time yesterday upheld the murder conviction of John Harvey Haley, a Canton high school youth, in the slaying of William Karan, shop keeper, during a holdup He had been sentenced to life imprisonment

'Good Ol' Joe' Again Hits Headlines; Called Nuisance

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Good Ol' Joe Earley was something of a national celebrity less than four months ago. Today, his landlady terms him simply a "nuisance."

That unimpressed woman is seeking to evict Joe from his suburban Lakewood home because, she claims, "it is unbearable to live under the same roof with him."

Joe's troubles started the night of Sept. 28, although he didn't think so at the time.

On that evening, the Cleveland Indians honored Joe as Mr. Average Cleveland Baseball Fan. Among other gifts, he received a new automobile, a television set and several pedigreed dogs.

According to Mrs. Lucy Rathbun, Earley liked it little when she refused him permission to install a television antennae atop their two-family home. The landlady also took exception to his keeping a pair of the hounds in his second-floor dwelling.

She alleged that Joe and his wife:

1. On several occasions threatened her husband and made it necessary for them to summon police.

2. Continually addressed them in "vile and profane language."

3. Once advised them that if they didn't like it they could move themselves.

4. Entertained friends late into the night, preventing them from sleeping.

5. Occasionally pounded and rapped on the floors of the upstairs suite in an effort to disturb them.

Personable Joe, although perplexed by the entire matter, is doing his best to take the trouble in his stride.

"This whole thing has been exaggerated beyond comprehension," he stated. "We've already got rid of the dogs and I never threatened anybody in my life but my wife."

Some experts say that four-fifths of all our knowledge comes to us through our eyes.

So many New York residents are claiming unemployment insurance benefits from Florida that the Division of Unemployment has decided to open an office in Miami to investigate.

"There is some real hard-boiled chiseling going on down there and we intend to put a stop to it," a labor department spokesman said.

New Squeeze Ahead for American Taxpayers

Government Units Short On Revenue

All Tapping Same Sources

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The same old tax goats are being hungrily eyed by federal, state and local governments.

Nearly all the 155,000 American governmental units are in need of cash, and the taxpayers everywhere seem doomed to a new squeeze. What deeply troubles many officials here and throughout the nation is the tendency of each level of government to tap more and more the same sources all the others are tapping.

On the same day that President Truman was propising higher federal income taxes in Washington, New York's governor Dewey was recommending higher income taxes for his state. Other states are pondering similar increases.

Federal tax officials are not even considering abandoning or reducing federal excise levies—and meanwhile more and more states are adopting new excises or raising those they have.

Only about 40 years ago, federal, state and local governments had their own fairly well differentiated sources of income. But by 1946 about 90 per cent of all federal, state and local revenue came from overlapping sources.

Some experts say it had to come and is not necessarily bad. Others consider it wasteful, inequitable and dangerous.

Before the first World War tax collectors browsed in a Garden of Eden. Government money needs were low, and revenue sources were plentiful

All government units in 1913 raised only $2,500,000,000, and the federal share was only about one-fourth.

Federal revenue came chiefly from import duties and consumption excises on tobacco and alcoholic beverages States and local governments got practically all their funds from property and poll taxes, corporate franchises and other business privileges.

By 1947 the total intake had swelled to $49,600,000,000, of which the federal share was three-

The big boost in Uncle Sam's revenue came chiefly from income taxes. In 1909 he imposed his first tax on corporation incomes, and in 1913 he began taxing personal incomes. Eighty per cent of his total revenue in 1946 came from income taxes.

During the first World War Uncle Sam began to dig deeper into the excise tax field. As an emergency measure in the Civil War, he had started taxes on alcoholic beverages and tobacco, and he never could bring himself to give them up. In the first World War he imposed an admission tax to places of amusement, and he has kept collecting them ever since.

When money was scarce in 1932, he imposed a gasoline tax as a depression relief measure. In the second World War he raised this tax and increased or added other excise levies.

States and localities, meanwhile, muscled deeper and deeper into the income and excise tax fields.

Today in some cities you pay amusement and income taxes to all three governments. In some localities in Alabama and Mississippi three gasoline taxes total 10½ cents a gallon, compared to 4½ in the District of Columbia and four states.

Deaths In Area

Ashland Plant Worker For 35 Years Dies

ASHLAND—James N. Mitchell, stationary fireman at the Dr. Hess and Clark, Inc. plant here the past 35 years, died at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday at Samaritan hospital following a short illness. He was a member of First Presbyterian church, IOOF, Eagles and a social member of the VFW.

Surviving are his widow, Maude; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Woods of Ashland and Miss Louise, at home; a son, Harold of Yuma, Ariz.; three brothers, John and Wiley of Ashland and Clyde of Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. Flora Lincoln of Nickerson, Kan., Mrs. Mae Dilgard and Mrs. Lydia Harris, both of Ashland.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Heyl-funeral home here with Rev. H. A. Andrews, First Presbyterian pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Girl Secretaries Elect Officers

Miss Lois Addlesperger of the county probate court staff, was elected president of the National Secretaries' association at a meeting last night in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. She succeeds Miss Mary O'Donnell.

Serving with Miss Addlesperger will be Mrs. Mary Cline, vice president; Mrs. Mary Jane Gardner, treasurer; Miss Ruby McClelland, recording secretary, and Miss Margaret Oswalt, corresponding secretary.

The group met for a 6:30 dinner, after which Mrs. Dean Dickerson reviewed the book, "The Plague and I," by Betty MacDonald. The next meeting will be Feb. 15, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Boy, 15, Sought By Authorities

Authorities in three cities today sought 15-year-old Henry Douglas Carroll, reported missing from his home at 235 Fifth avenue since Jan. 12.

His father, Jerry, said he had asked police in Mansfield, Olive Hill, Ky., and Bucyrus to aid in finding the youth who was last seen in Olive Hill Saturday night. Carroll said he went to Olive Hill to get the boy but he fled.

Plan New Farm Group

Discussion of the formation of a workable "Farm Club" as a subsidiary of the Chamber of Commerce, will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Chamber of Commerce assembly room, Dean Dickerson, president of the C. of C., announced today.

The meeting will be in charge of the agricultural committee of the C. of C. of which Ruhland Isaly is chairman. C. N. McGrew, county agent, and several representative members of Richland county organizations have been asked to meet with the committee tomorrow night.

"We feel that the farmers should have a part in the city affairs," Dickerson said. "Food production is certainly an important part of any community and we think those who produce it should have a hand in city planning as well as rural."

When the plan gets under way, Dickerson said, one of Richland county's "dirt farmers" will head the club which will be as much a part of the Chamber of Commerce set-up as the Manufacturers' club or the Retail Merchants association, Dickerson said.

FCC Technique Rapped Sharply

security and to the accepted American way of life, the committee goes further to state:

"On the basis of investigation in Puerto Rico, your committee recommends that the Congress enact laws to protect private broadcasters from competition by government stations of agencies and subdivisions of government.

"Not only does the grant of such licenses create a serious threat to the economic survival of great industry and do violence to our system of government, but such an act places in the hands of government and the party in power a propaganda outlet without precedence in American history.

"History of totalitarian nations bespeak the dangers of such grants. We need but study the techniques of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini."

Ban Placed On Issuing Of Permits

Liquor Director Blocks Applications

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— State Liquor Director Oscar L. Fleckner announced today that the department was holding up issuance of all new permits except those in the "F" classification.

The department will issue permits other than the "F" type only when ordered to do so by a court or by the Board of Liquor Control, Fleckner said.

No reason was given for the action.

Fleckner said "the situation will be clarified and further announcement made as soon as considered action is possible."

The "F" type permit is good only one to five-days and allows charitable organizations to sell 3.2 beer. Fleckner said the department would continue to issue renewal permits.

Until further announcement it will be impossible to release information concerning the status of pending applications," the director said.

"Requests for such information cannot be answered at the present time without undue interference with the organizational activities of the permit division and the backlog of renewal applications which have accumulated."

Fleckner said that "except in cases where the department is ordered by the court or the board of liquor control to issue particular permits, final action is being held up for the time being on all new applications of every class, including change of ownership whether substitution or transfer and change of location."

Burglars Get $50 at Agency

Theft of approximately $50 from the Bookwalter Motor Sales on Ashland road last night was reported today to the sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff Norman M. Smaltz, who investigated, said entry was made by breaking the glass on the rear basement door and reaching in and unlocking the door.

The money was taken from the cash register and a petty cash box, Smaltz said. He said files and desks were ransacked, but nothing but the money was reported taken. An employe of the company, Frank May, discovered the burglary.

Not Complainant

Mrs. Edna Sipe, 30 Crestline avenue, said today she was not the complainant in an assault and battery case which resulted in a 30-day county jail sentence for Fred Hogmire, 129 South Diamond street. There was no address listed for Edna Sipe who filed the charge.

While he was away from home, someone entered his room through the second-floor window and stole $125 worth of clothing. Police said today the clothing had been found. Chick reported the theft yesterday on his return from Cleveland.

Chick, who faces imprisonment of 10 years or more if found guilty was arrested at the request of the U. S. Secret Service. He is charged with forgery of a treasury check for $39.50, made out to Andrew Dent, 276 North Franklin avenue. The check was cashed last February at a Bowman street grocery.

Police Find Truck Stuck

A truck carrying new automobiles last night held up traffic on Park avenue east for a few minutes when it failed to clear the Pennsylvania railroad underpass.

The truck was headed into Mansfield and became stuck at the west end of the underpass, blocking the traffic behind it. A passing motorist notified police who arrived on the scene to direct traffic around the stalled vehicle. The roof of one of the new cars was damaged.

Police said a sign on the underpass clearly indicates the clearance.

A tractor-trailer loaded with steel broke loose from its parking place on Franklin avenue near Second street during the night and rolled half-way out into the street.

Police called a wrecker which pushed the truck back to the curb.

Mayor Studies Applications

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn is still looking for a successor to Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison.

The mayor said today he knew of a number of men who would accept the job but declined to name any specific applicants. He said he preferred to wait until he found a man with qualifications he wants.

Garrison's resignation becomes effective Feb. 15. His successor will be the city's fourth service-safety director since Mayor Vaughn took office Jan. 1, 1946.

Trading Light But Stock Market Shows Small Gains

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market timidly picked its way forward today.

Advances were far from impressive, most of them being in small fractions. A handful of key issues slipped a notch or two and many were unchanged.

Trading started at an unusually low rate but later picked up a trifle.

The improvement, although slight, was enough to lift the general level of prices, as measured by the Associated Press stock average, to the best level since early November. It was the fifth day in a row in which the market has gently advanced.

Inaugural Presents Costly Spectacle

ROYALTY, in its most ostentatious trappings, could present no more magnificent show than that which marked today's inauguration of Harry S. Truman as President of the United States, with associated festivities that have tended, for a brief spell, to divert thought from the serious tasks that lie ahead for those who have been chosen to direct the course of the United States of America during the next four years.

While the exuberance of spirits which dictated that this should be the most stupendous inaugural ever staged, is understandable, it is regrettable that such a demonstration of disregard for the simplicity and equality which is so strongly emphasized as an attribute of democracy should have been deemed advisable at a time when many Americans are hard-pressed to provide themselves with the needs of comfortable living and when dark forebodings cloud the future.

To the "Man of the Hour"—Harry S. Truman—who advanced from early business failure, through the strange processes of politics, to the vice presidency and now to an elective term as President, it seems not unlikely that he sometimes feels that he is in the midst of a pleasant dream, from which he may awaken at any moment to find himself behind the counter of a Kansas City, Mo., haberdashery.

But it is no dream. It is an American reality, and there will be sincere hope by all of his countrymen—and by freedom-loving people all over the world—that President Truman will prove able to successfully cope with the tremendous problems that will confront him immediately after these splendid inaugural ceremonies are over and the burdens of the presidency are again assumed.

Federal Taxes Mount Amazingly

WHILE taxes for the upkeep of local, county and state government seem high, as they are thought of in terms of millions of dollars, they are really a small matter as compared with payments that will be required of Ohio people under President Truman's budget proposal calling for expenditure of almost 42 billion dollars during the next fiscal year.

Estimates by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce reveal that taxpayers in each county will be assessed many times more in federal taxes than they will have to pay for all local and state taxes.

Viewed on a state-wide basis, estimates are that federal taxes will run about eight and a half times the total expenditures for general operations in Ohio in 1948, with an average of $312.63 for every man, woman and child in the state.

This gives an idea of the extent to which the build-up of federal government extravagances has made it difficult for states, counties and municipalities to finance their reasonable needs, and the resultant dependence on Washington for aid that would otherwise be unneeded. It also serves to emphasize the fact that no government service is "free"—it must be paid for by taxpayers.

Where Bureaucrats Control Doctors

ACCORDING to an Associated Press dispatch from London, "Britain's national health service—the world's biggest experiment in socialized medicine—is undergoing a strain." That strain in the view of Health Minister Bevan, results from the fact that "too many are demanding too much." In other words, people are working on the theory that they may as well visit the doctor whether they are sick or not, because "free" medical service is coming to them. This situation has reached so extreme a point that Mr. Bevan issued a public statement in which he said: "Don't let us become a nation of hypochondriacs. I ask the public to use their doctors wisely and only when they really need them."

It is also evident that the cost of providing allegedly "free" health service for all is approaching a critical point. The government's original forecast was that the bill would run to 150,000,000 pounds a year. But the actual cost, according to the British Medical Association, will exceed 250,000,000 pounds.

The most important thing, of course, is just what Britain's socialistic experiment is doing to the standards of medical care. And here, too, some significant and authoritative information is available.

Lord Horder, physician in ordinary to the royal family, has this to say: "Medicine in Britain has become a branch of the civil service. We are no longer medical experts; we sit and sign forms. We have no time to diagnose our patients' diseases; but pass them on to other persons and institutions, knowing full well that they cannot dispense the health benefits which may or may not be needed."

Buried Treasure Lures Searchers

ANOTHER expedition is out for the buried treasure of Cocos Island. This island, in the Pacific about 400 miles west of Costa Rica, is the most famous of all the reputed burying places of treasure. Several distinct hoards are reported to have been left there, the earliest dating back to a pirate named Edward Davis at the beginning of the eighteenth century. A century later, when Peru was winning its independence from Spain, the gold and silver in the cathedral and the state exchequer were hidden in Cocos Island. So far as is known, none of it has ever been found.

Attempts to get it have been many. Maps purporting to show the location of the buried riches are fairly common, but no hunt has produced any results. A prolonged search was made in 1929 by Sir Malcolm Campbell, the racing automobilist who died recently. Now an expedition has left Los Angeles under the leadership of James A. Forbes of Riverside, Calif., a wealthy citrus ranch owner.

Russian dressmakers and milliners have been told to avoid extreme styles and to concentrate on mass production—which raises the question: "Will Russian women, more than the women of any other country, long submit to wearing clothes that are just like those of every other woman?"

Now the five-year-old asks, how comes that salt freezes ice cream but melts the glaze on the sidewalk—which, of course, is quite simple, once you understand it.

The Kansas City Star puts it bluntly: "Because the hospitals are crowded, citizens are requested not to slip on the ice until at least July."

Claude Callan advises: "Don't be impatient. You are sure to find trouble enough in your lifetime without stirring up a lot for yourself."

Washington Calling

Acheson's Opportunity

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Few men in American public life have had the opportunity and, at the same time, the burden of responsibility that now falls on Dean Acheson. The new secretary of state enters office with the confidence and friendship of the President and responsible leaders in Congress.

In the department he takes over he will find associates with whom he had worked on intimate terms while he was under secretary. One of the advantages in Acheson's appointment is that he begins with a broad range of experience and background.

He was in part responsible for the appointment of George F. Kennan to head the state department's planning staff. Contrary to rumors circulated since the President appointed Acheson, the two men worked well together.

The new secretary will, of course, be faced with the necessity for major changes. If Walter Bedell Smith, when he ends his vacation, informs the President that he cannot for reasons of health and income return to his post as ambassador to Russia, the President will accept his resignation willingly.

General Smith should not be asked to return. Two years and more of the solitary confinement that is the American embassy in Moscow is enough to make the most dispassionate and objective man lose his perspective.

In other diplomatic posts abroad the United States is inadequately or badly represented. Changes, to be made gradually and tactfully, are essential.

A DRASTIC overhaul is due also in the field of Latin-American relations. The deterioration there has gone a long way and the prestige and influence of this country have suffered greatly, as we seem to have condoned or even encouraged the overthrow of democratic regimes by force.

Reflecting the era of hysteria and fear now happily passing, Acheson's critics have directed most of their suspicion at the possibility he might "apease" Soviet Russia. To those who followed most closely his work as assistant secretary and under secretary that was patently absurd.

Their fear is not that he will appease Russia but that he may fail to explore all the avenues, however dim and uncertain, that might lead to a negotiated armistice or, at any rate, a truce ending the cold war. To be resolute and yet not completely unyielding at a sign of change from the Kremlin is Acheson's curiously difficult position.

One difficulty faced by any American secretary of state is that public opinion has come to expect him to be Machiavelli, Metternich, St. John and Superman all rolled into one.

In other words, we expect the secretary and something called "foreign policy" to solve the world's ills, even when the world is in the midst of a revolutionary change as it is today.

That attitude was implied in much of the criticism directed at that great American, George C. Marshall, now retired. He was handicapped, it was said, by the limitations of his military background. Of course, he was. But the critics too often overlooked the qualities of greatness that carried him through a difficult transition period.

The point is that every human being has limitations of one kind or another. There is no saintly magician who can resolve every dilemma.

Acheson's qualifications and capacities are so apparent that no one should be in the least surprised when the limitations of what he can do also become obvious.

The Nation Today

One Package, Or Two?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON —One package, or two? That doesn't mean groceries. It means: What to do about a new labor law?

"Packages" is a term for wrapping up two or more ideas in one deal.

Congress is getting set to wipe out the Taft-Hartley labor law; to replace it with the old labor law, the Wagner Act; and maybe make a few changes in the Wagner Act.

Should Congress wrap the whole business up in one package by doing all three things at once?

Or should it knock out Taft-Hartley and replace it with the Wagner Act in one stroke, and maybe make changes later on? that would be a two-package deal.

Labor liked the old Wagner Act which President Roosevelt's New Deal Congress passed in 1935. It remained law until 1947. Employers didn't like it. They said it was loaded in favor of labor.

The Republicans got control of Congress in 1947—for the first time since the Wagner Act was passed 12 years before—and they wiped out that act and replaced it with the Taft-Hartley law.

Labor screamed that the new law put more restrictions on labor than any law in history. Employers said it simply balanced the books.

Came the elections of November, 1948. Backed by labor, President Truman and his Democrats promised, if they won, to wipe out the Taft-Hartley and replace it with a "fair" labor law.

Mr. Truman and his Democrats, having won, now are going to make good on their promise by trying to knock out Taft-Hartley, or as much as they can over Republican opposition.

* * *

Difficulties Foreseen.

LABOR wants the two-package deal: Taft-Hartley abolished, the Wagner Act restored. Labor says amendments can be made later on, if Congress finds they're necessary.

Why doesn't labor want the whole thing in one package? The labor argument goes this way:

1. It's easy to replace Taft-Hartley with the Wagner Act. A simple majority vote in both houses of Congress can do it.

2. This is not only easy to do but should be done fast because labor has some big contracts coming up. And it wants the protection of the Wagner Act when it sits down to bargain with employers.

3. But trying to decide what amendments, if any, are really needed, may take many weeks or months. Too long, labor says.

It would be to labor's advantage to get Taft-Hartley replaced by the Wagner Act first, leaving amendments to some later time.

Having gotten the Wagner Act back, labor then could use all its weight to fight any amendments offered later.

So much for what labor would like. It may not turn out that way.

Suppose the Democratic leaders in Congress try to get Taft-Hartley voted out and the Wagner Act voted back in.

Before there can be a vote, Republican leaders are sure to fight to have amendments put in the Wagner Act right then, and enough Democrats may go along with them to get that done.

No matter what happens to the Taft-Hartley Act, some of the Republican leaders want parts of that act made part of any act that takes its place.

For example: Under Taft-Hartley labor leaders, if their unions are to get protection under the law, must swear they're not communists.

Some of the Democratic leaders who handle labor affairs in Congress have said they want the whole job of changing labor laws and making amendments wrapped up in one package, all at one time.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Gives 'Home Folks' Preference

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A lot of Washington's high-society is pretty sore about this inaugural. They're not being invited to the big parties. This includes quite a few prominent senators, congressmen and lobbyists who take a lot of pride in being seen at all the right social functions. This time they have been left completely out in the cold.

This omission wasn't because they were Republicans—a lot of Democrats were left out too.

It was because Mr. Truman laid down the law that most of the invitations were to be reserved for the folks back home—the little people who came a long way to see the inaugural.

That's why the rental clothiers in Washington are swamped right now. You can't rent a dress suit for love or money. All the folks from out of town are in town renting tuxedos and tails to see the man they voted for made President of the United States.

It doesn't make any difference that Washington socialites make snide remarks about the "unwashed Trumanites." Harry Truman is standing pat and having the folks back home to see him sworn in.

Herein lies Harry Truman's greatest strength. A very large segment of the American people love Truman because they consider him one of their own. They admired and loved Franklin Roosevelt because he was their champion. But they did not consider him one of their own.

Truman however, is different. His presence in the White House is a symbol of the fact that any little haberdasher or farmer or county politician can sit in the White House—in fact, is already there.

That is Harry Truman's greatest strength, and also his greatest obligation. For he cannot let these people down.

* * *

Truman's Two Assets.

AS Harry Truman takes the oath of office today, he has two new big assets which will help him mightily in carrying out his obligation to the people who elected him:

1. He has a new Congress which is vigorously, on the whole enthusiastically, with him.

2. He has a new confidence in himself.

No longer is he a political accident. No longer does he owe his place to a President who smiled upon him. He has been elected on his own and he intends to operate on his own.

These two assets are important. Also important is a third fact which is not an asset, but a liability — namely, the general level of mediocrity among the men around Truman.

Actually Truman's program is not new. The State of the Union message he sent to Congress was a good message, but it repeated in different words the same important proposals which Truman had sent to the 80th Congress.

The new 81st Congress will probably pass the bulk of this program. But after it is passed will come the difficult, vital task of carrying it out. And getting good men to run the government, in any administration, is a lot harder than it sounds.

* * *

Mediocre Men.

ONE REASON you can't get them is lack of inspiration. Good men don't work necessarily for money, but because they love their work, because they are achieving goals they believe in. They don't like to work under mediocre men: and some of the cabineteers in the Truman official family, plus some of the advisers around him just do not inspire enthusiasm.

There is no use mentioning names at this time. If I did, Mr. Truman probably would hit the ceiling and become more determined than ever to keep them on.

For he simply hates to have anyone tell him who should or should not be in his cabinet. Sometimes Truman himself has referred to his own cabineteers in scathingly critical langauge—but when someone else criticises them, it's different.

* * *

Truman's Obligation.

NEVERTHELESS, a revitalized cabinet is one of the most important obligations Harry Truman owes the people who elected him, as he takes the oath of office in his own right.

The people who throng the grandstands along Pennsylvania avenue and the Capitol Plaza watching the ceremonies today won't be thinking about these things. They have come to consider their President as the little man from Missouri who has stepped into seven-league boots.

Great things are expected of him, the man who almost single-handed won the highest honor in the land. He is living proof that people can speak as they please, vote as they choose, and see their man take the oath of office. And today nobody is worried much about a cabinet.

The next four years, however, will prove whether Harry Truman's name will take a place beside that of the Andrew Jacksons and the Franklin Roosevelts, or whether he will be classified with the Andrew Johnsons and the Calvin Coolidges.

And the factor which will balance history's decision will be whether he picks men with imagination to conceive and judgment to execute.

The wisdom of that choice will mean the difference between greatness and mediocrity. But, more important, it will decide whether the little people who voted for Truman and who now throng the Nation's Capitol to do him honor, will emerge four years later, disappointed and disillusioned, or proud of the fact that one of their own number led the United States on to bigger and greater things.

Gaiety Displaces Gloom

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON — Three years and nine months ago, a handful of persons, many openly weeping, saw a man with white, stunned face take oath of office as President on one of the saddest days in the nation's history.

The sudden death of Franklin D. Roosevelt on April 12, 1945, so shocked the nation that there was scarcely room on the front pages the following day for news that Harry S. Truman had been sworn in as chief executive at 7:09 o'clock the previous evening.

It is estimated that 120,000 jubilant men, women and children will see Mr. Truman take the oath of office on Capitol Hill at noon today.

But on that April evening almost four years ago, with the spring light fading in the cabinet room, only Mr. Truman's own wife and daughter and the members of Mr. Roosevelt's official family, hastily summoned in the national crisis, heard him say:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

There were no invited guests, no special witnesses. Strong men, sad and shocked by Mr. Roosevelt's death, made no effort to hide their tears as a new President came to office.

When he stands before the gay multitudes today to take the oath from Chief Justice Vinson, Mr. Truman will be resplendent in formal morning dress. On that sad April day, he wore a gray double-breasted busness suit, a soft white shirt, and one of his favorite bow ties.

Solemn Ceremony.

MR. TRUMAN was at the capitol, visiting Rayburn in his office, when the White House phoned him the stunning news that he was President of the United States. He drove immediately to the White House, to find Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet assembling. Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, now deceased, had been summoned.

Someone scurried around to find a Bible. One was found in the office of Bill Hassett, then secretary to Mr. Roosevelt and now to Mr. Truman.

When Mr. Truman takes the oath today, two Bibles will be used. Both the inexpensive volume found in Hassett's office and the magnificent early reprint of the Guttenburg Bible for which the citizens of Independence, Mo., paid $5,000 for this occasion will be used.

The brief ceremony was over almost before it was begun. It lasted less than 90 seconds. In their grief and agitation, men forgot to come forward to shake the hand of the new President. Only a few remembered to do so. The small audience seemed to fade from the room.

Then the secret service took over. If other men, in shock of sorrow, could not realize there was a new President, the secret service did not forget.

The President and his family were driven home in a secret service car through quiet streets, deserted by citizens who hung on the radio to learn more of the terrible calamity that had befallen the nation.

Probably 1,000,000 cheering, holiday-happy persons will cheer Mr. Truman and his family to the echoing skies when they drive in the Inaugural Parade today.

But after that first inaugural, the first family drove back to its $120 a month apartment on Connecticut avenue without a look of recognition or a lifted hand from the few men in the street.

That was its first inaugural day.

This day will be gay and tumultuous with parades and receptions and an Inaugural Ball. But in a way, after the stark drama of April 12, 1945, it can only be anticlimactic.

Interested and Amused.

Editor News-Journal:

I have just read with considerable interest and some amusement the rather lengthy article which appeared in last Sunday's News-Journal by Louis Bromfield about the prevailing oleo margarine discussion. In fewer words the brilliant author might have said that he was in favor of maintaining the "status quo" on the issue.

Mr. Bromfield has all at once become the champion of the common man against the wicked monopolists whose sole aim is to destroy him. He becomes eloquently indignant against the oleo-producing interests comprised entirely (according to Mr. Bromfield) of sinister, scheming, dishonest and deceptive men. He includes the farmer who grows the soybean for oleo-producing purposes in this category.

At the same time he remains strangely silent against the no less selfish and unscrupulous big dairy interests (not farmers) who have fought successfully for years to keep their most serious competitor at a distinct disadvantage on the free market of America.

Being originally a farm boy myself I prefer butter to oleo any day in the week, but I sure hate to pay the price tagged on to it nowadays. By the way, butter is artificially colored most of the time.

It is clear to me—yes "clear as crystal" to use Mr. Bromfield's very words, that he is clear over on the side of the dairy people. Well, I understand that he is a very successful farmer in addition to being a brilliant author.

Purposes of Freedom Train.

The Freedom Train has made the rounds and has returned to Philadelphia where it began its grand tour 16 months ago. In that time it traveled some 35,000 miles up and down and across this broad land. In those months it was visited by millions of Americans although the exact number is not given.

The Freedom Train served at least two important purposes. It assembled in one place and then brought to countless Americans the tangible proof of their priceless historic heritages as freemen in a liberty-loving land.

It gave them a chance to see the very documents on which that freedom is based. And it was an impressive reminder of how that freedom came about and what it is worth in a world where freedom sometimes seems to be shrinking rather than expanding. — Ohio State Journal.

As Cerf Tells It

A New York lady, freshly arrived at the village of Truro, on Cape Cod, for a vacation, was endeavoring vainly to engage a taciture native in conversation. Her bright remarks about the cottages and the dunes and the views of the sea went unanswered. In desperation she hazarded, "What quaint, quaint people one sees around here." Unexpectedly the native replied, "You're absolutely right, ma'am," he said, "but, thank God, they all go home after Labor Day."

Health Unit Post Filled In Bucyrus

Faulty Phone Service Explanation Given

BUCYRUS—Mayor R. L. Hertzer informed city council at its meeting this week of the appointment of G. O. Pinney to fill the unexpired term of Philip Kile, deceased, on the city health board

The term of Pinney, who is employed as a salesman by the R. A. Jolly company here, expires in January, 1953. The mayor stated Dr. R. J. Caton, Bucyrus physician, had been reappointed on the board for a five-year term ending in January, 1954.

An explanation of the present faulty telephone service existing in Bucyrus was given to councilmen by M. R. Schneider, local telephone company manager. Schneider appeared before council after several councilmen had voiced their ire over the "inadequacy of present telephone facilities"

The company spokesman stated a large improvement, enlargement and replacement program is underway by the company in Bucyrus and when the new program is completed, the present faults, mainly due to overtaxed facilities, will have been remedied.

Councilmen were informed by Floyd G. Brown, Marion, who is consulting engineer for the city, that progress is "steady" at the municipal waterworks building construction project. Brown said the annual water consumption in Bucyrus now is twice that of 14 years ago and suggested council give some consideration to the construction of a third reservoir with a capacity of from 150 to 200 million gallons.
